TREE HOUSES OF THE PAPUANS.

Cool and Clean, But Not Built for Somnambulists.

The famous tree houses of Papua are rapidly disappearing before the march of civilization and settlement in the colony.

The tree house-a neat and well built habitation, placed at an enormous height among the branches of a forest tree and reached only by a swinging ladder-was primarily intended as a refuge from enemies. Now, however, that the government has brought the wild tribes under control the native prefers to live in a house that demands less skill in construc-

There are still many tree houses to be seen, though few or none are being built. In the northeastern district of Papua (where much valuable sugar, rubber and cocoanut land lies ready for taking up) the government officials on their regular tours of inspection often sleep at night in the house of some hospitable native village constable, who draws his ladder up at sundown to a doorstep 80 feet high in the air.

These tree houses are exceedingly cool, clean and picturesque, with the roofs of native made thatch and walls and floors of wattled boughs.

AGE NO MARK OF DISCRETION. New York Police Statistics Prove a

Most Lamentable Fact. A woman shoplifter who had passed the Psalmist's allotted period, and who had a long record of offenses behind her, was sent to prison again the other day, and in the printed accounts much was made of her years, as if age and misdemeanor were strangers. As a matter of fact, among women, youth and disdemeanor are strangers if, we make the test of the matter the fact of falling into the law's clutches,

More than half the women offenders of New York are classified in the report of the state prison commission as "middle-aged or elderly women." Of the 6,644 women sentenced to the Blackwell's Island workhouse during the last year, 3,463 were more than 30 years old. About one in 15 of the number were legal minors. Disorderly conduct and public intoxication accounted for all but a few hundreds of the entire number.

There is really no surprise in these figures, for the spectacle of gray hairs without honor is not unfamiliar in any of our small parks. It would be superfluous to point the moral-and Horace has done it already in his warnings to Lalage and Chloe.

No Drums in the Middle Ages.

As we come to the Middle Ages, when the nations of modern Europe were struggling into existence, we find that at first, the drum was not used at all. So, although melody had been known and practiced for many centurnes, rhythm had been quite forgotten. For what there is left to us of the music of the Middle Ages contains no bars, and we know that it was slowly and monotonously chanted, without the least accent.

icularly as the Crus Europe all sorts of percussion instruments from the east. Various kinds These horses are too well known of drums, tambourines and cymbals were then seen in Europe for the first they have been used, with very little change, ever since.-St. Nicholas.

How One Got His Name.

"An example of a curfous Christian name may be found," says a correspondent, "nearer your offices than most of the cases you have printed. The facts are these. The father of a boy baby wished him to be christened The mother favored the Thomas. name of Robert. When they arrived at the church the matter was still undecided. The father informed the curate that the child's name was Thomas.

"'Oh, no!' gasped the mother distressfully.

"The curate regarding the woman as the ruling spirit promptly baptized the infant Ono.

"The grave of Ono Titchener is to be seen in the churchyard of St. Giles', Camberwell."-London News.

Had All the Symptoms. The learned hobo was dispensing knowledge for the benefit of his less enlightened companion.

"Have you ever been bitten by a dog?" he asked. "Many's de time," replied the unenlightened one.

"Are you not afraid of hydrophobia?" "Nix on de hydro."

"'Tis a curious disease. When a person contracts hydrophobia, the very 25 cents and address thought of water makes him sick." "Is dat on de level? Youse ain't stringin' me?

"It is a scientific fact," "Den I bet I've had it all me life, an' never knowed wot was de matter wid

One Way He Could Help.

An eastern college graduate applied for work in a Michigan lumber camp. He was told to get busy on one end of a cross-saw, the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman. At first all went well, but at the end of the second day the young man's strength began to wane. Suddenly the old man stopped the saw and spat.

"Sonny," he said, not unkindly, "I gon't mind yer ridin' on this saw, but if it's jest the same to you I wish Telephones: Residence, 18; Office 9 you'd keep yer feet off the ground."-Everybody's.
